Do They Miss Me at Home?

Twould be an assurance most dear,
To know that this moment some loved one
Were saying "I wish he were here."
To feel that the group at the fireside
Were thinking of me as I roam;
Oh, yes, 'twould be joy beyond measure
To know that they miss me at home.

When twilight approaches, the season When twilight approaches, the transfer of transfer

Do they miss me at home, do they miss

At morning, at noon or at night? At morning, at noon or at night?
And lingers one gloomy shade round them
That only my presence can light?
Are joys less invitingly welcome.
And pleasures less hale than before,
Fecause one is missed from the circle,
Because I am with them no more?
—Caroline A. Mason in Old Song.

NATHAN HALE

By FRANCIS MILES FINCH.

Portrait, autograph and biographical sketch of Francis Miles Finch have already appeared in this series.

O drum beat and heart beat, A soldier marches by: There is color in his cheek, There is courage in his eye Yet to drum beat and heart beat In a moment he must die.

> By the starlight and moonlight, He seeks the Briton's camp; He hears the rustling flag And the armed sentry's tramp; And the starlight and the moonlight His silent wanderings lamp.

With slow tread and still tread, He scans the tented line; And he counts the battery guns, By the gaunt and shadowy pine; And his slow tread and still tread Gives no warning sign.

The dark wave, the plumed wave, It meets his eager glance; And it sparkles theath the stars, Like the glimmer of a lance— A dark wave, a plumed wave. On an emerald expanse.

A sharp clang, a still clang, And terror in the sound! For the sentry, falcon eyed, In the camp a spy hath found; With a sharp clang, a steel clang, The patriot is bound.

With a calm brow and a steady brow, He listens to his doom; In his look there is no fear, Nor a shadowy trace of gloom; But with calm brow and steady brow, He robes him for the tomb.

In the long night, the still night, He kneels upon the sod; And the brutal guards withhold E'en the solemn word of God! In the long night, the still night, e Christ hath tre

'Neath the blue morn, the sunny morn, He dies upon the tree; And he mourns that he can lose But one life for liberty: And in the blue morn, the sunny morn, His spent wings are free.

But his last words, his message words, They burn, lest friendly eye Should read how proud and calm A patriot could die.
With his last words, his dying words, A soldier's battle cry

From fame leaf and angel leaf. From monument and urn, The sad earth, the glad of heaven, His tragic fate shall learn And on fame leaf and angel leaf The name of HALE shall burn!
